ACADEMIC SCHOLARLY EXCELLENCE WITH MORE. A BROADER COMMITMENT. A LARGER SENSE OF THE WORLD.

GLOBAL FROM MADAGASCAR TO THE MOON, WE HELP OUR SCHOLARS SHARE THEIR TALENTS ON THE EARTH AND BEYOND.

LEADERS UNLIMITED OPPORTUNITIES FOR OUR SCHOLARS TO LEARN, LEAD, AND HAVE AN IMPACT ON THE GREATER GOOD.

MISSION & VISION
In the Schreyer Honors College lives are transformed, friendships are made, experiences create lasting bonds, and laughter accompanies learning.

Mission
The mission of the Schreyer Honors College is to promote:
– Achieving academic excellence with integrity
– Building a global perspective, and
– Creating opportunities for leadership and civic engagement

Vision
To educate men and women who will have an important and ethical influence in the world, affecting academic, professional, civic, social, and business outcomes.
To improve educational practice and to be recognized as a leading force in honors education nationwide.
Schreyer Honors College was recently ranked as one of the nation’s top public honors colleges and is widely recognized as one of the foremost undergraduate programs in the United States. The honors experience at Penn State offers small class size and one-to-one access to distinguished faculty, all within one of the world’s leading research institutions. The small living/learning community within a bigger institution offers individualized support and countless opportunities, including mentoring connections with Penn State alumni who have gone on to become industry leaders.
"LEADERSHIP IS ABOUT SERVING AND EMPOWERING OTHERS."

Neha Gupta is the first American to be awarded the International Children’s Peace Prize. At the age of 9, she started Empower Orphans, an organization established to help vulnerable children in India and the United States. To date, she has raised $2.4 million and has aided over many tens of thousands of children.

“Growing up, the importance of civic engagement was drilled into me. Each summer as part of my annual trip to visit my grandparents in India, I would volunteer at the local Baal Kunj orphanage as a way of giving back to the community.

“I was able to comprehend the reality of these children’s lives. I considered what it meant to have no one to give you unconditional love, no place to call home, a lack of food and clean water, limited opportunities to attend school or receive medical attention when needed.”

Empower Orphans was born with the mission to provide education and health care to vulnerable children in underserved areas around the world and right here in Pennsylvania.

Gupta was able to see the power of youth in changing the world and the power each person has to improve his or her own life. “I believe in the power of youth helping youth and giving young people the tools to help others their age.

“Every single person has the power to pursue passions. I talk about the ripple effect as an example because of how powerful it is. One person can create change with just an idea that inspires other people to create a movement.”

Gupta plans to grow Empower Orphans into a self-sustaining organization with student-run chapters around the world similar to Doctors Without Borders. She is studying science and will pursue medicine to continue her passion of helping others through the power of healing.
Will Ferguson is fascinated by entrepreneurship. To him it’s more than starting a company or making money launching a product. It is a way for people to create a path for themselves that hasn’t existed before. He designed his own major to pursue his passion and wants to help others in the process.

“Coming into my first year of college, I wanted to become an investment banker, but through the people I’ve met and experiences I’ve had at Penn State, my life has significantly changed. I have decided to create my own major, run an entrepreneurship group, pursue a career in design, empower students to follow their passions—and I have become immensely happier.”

In the process, Ferguson has become the student leader for many of Penn State’s entrepreneurial endeavors. He is the president of Innoblue, Penn State’s student community of coders, designers, and innovators; director of the Summer Founders Program, an initiative that offers six student teams $10,000 each to work on their startup or nonprofit idea for the summer; and a volunteer at New Leaf, Penn State’s mission-driven entrepreneur group. He is also a StartingBloc Fellow, worked on volunteer projects in Panama and the Dominican Republic, and completed a fellowship with the venture capital firm True Ventures.

Ferguson finds that being a Schreyer Scholar allows him to take advantage of the opportunities available as part of a small community in one of the world’s leading research universities. “The honors college has provided me the opportunity to surround myself with people who are smarter and more talented than I am to help me grow in various aspects of life.

“I always remember that iron sharpens iron and the best thing you can do is surround yourself with high-level individuals.

“The end goal for me is to impact the people around me, stay true to who I am, and be an inspiration for people to create their own path in life.”
I HAVE LEARNED THAT HARD WORK TRUMPS EVERYTHING.

Boyoung Kim believes in hard work. Moving between countries and learning a second language as a teenager was no easy task, but the dedication required to overcome this has made her a leader while pursuing what she loves.

“I was born in Michigan but moved to Korea at an early age, so Korean is my first language. Years later my family moved back to America and I had to put in double-effort to keep up with schoolwork. This wasn’t just a few days. It took years to overcome my language barrier.”

At the same time, Kim was active in competitive lacrosse, violin, and community service. She was named to the U.S. Lacrosse All-American team, performed as first violinist at the President’s Concert at the Kimmel Center in Philadelphia, and continues her love of service. “I look back and think about the horsepower I found that helped me break through my given potential. I learned the value of hard work.”

“There are no shortcuts. This culture is embodied by the Schreyer Honors College, which is why it has been a good fit for me.”

At Penn State, Kim has channeled her work ethic to pursue a career in wealth and investment management on Wall Street and was a research assistant at the Center for Global Business Studies. “I like the high-speed, energy, and power environment, but I don’t want to lose my ethics over it.” This is where Kim’s other passion comes into play.

“While I like the compassionate and personal aspect to wealth management, I am also passionate about community service. I spent my first three breaks on service projects with Global Business Brigades in Central America. I’ve found that there is a unique opportunity through which I can continue to pursue both my passions for finance and service: social impact investing.

“This is a case where everybody wins. Investors get their returns based on the improvements made in the cause within the society they invest in. I can help facilitate investors making powerful change in a community.”
HALLMARKS OF THE SCHREYER HONORS COLLEGE

— Grants: The Schreyer Honors College awards grants to help offset the costs associated with traveling abroad for study, research, or service. Grants are also available to assist with living expenses associated with unpaid summer internships and research.

— Study Abroad: In 2015–16, Schreyer Honors College dedicated $300,000 to support international experiences for Scholars. Scholars spent time in more than fifty countries.

— Signature Study Abroad Programs:
  > Summer programs in India and South America with linked spring and fall courses.
  > London Study Tour, a theatre-intensive program open to any major
  > Semester Exchange Program with University College Freiburg, Germany

— The Honors Thesis: The thesis distinguishes a Schreyer Scholar’s career and accomplishments at Penn State. It is a substantial, scholarly work that defines a Scholar’s academic achievement.

— The Scholars Medal: The medal is awarded to graduating Scholars who have successfully completed the college’s academic requirements. A Scholar’s diploma and transcript note that the individual graduated with honors in a specific academic area.

— Distinguished Honors Faculty Program: This program brings selected faculty together with students to discuss topics ranging from medical ethics and consumerism in the twenty-first century to development in the Far East and community-based reconciliation in Northern Ireland.

— Academic Excellence Scholarship: All first-year Schreyer Scholars receive the Academic Excellence Scholarship, a value of $4,500 per year, renewable for a total of four years (eight semesters). The scholarship may be combined with other need- and merit-based University funding up to the total cost of attendance.

— Schreyer Scholar Research Forum: A monthly student research presentation forum in Atherton Hall.

— Honors Courses: More than 300 courses, taught by leading faculty, span the academic spectrum. Honors classes typically enroll no more than twenty-five students. Some honors courses are enriched versions of regular Penn State offerings while others are unique to the honors curriculum.

— Honors Advising: Honors advisers help Schreyer Scholars explore interests and possibilities while keeping them focused on their academic requirements.

— Priority Registration: Schreyer Scholars are able to schedule classes first—well before course registration begins for other Penn State students.

LIVING WITH HONORS
Scholars housing is the perfect mix of residence-life fun in an environment dedicated to academic achievement.

Simmons and Atherton Halls
> Located in the heart of campus, near downtown State College, close to restaurants, shopping, libraries, and workout facilities
> Social hours
> Fireside chats with alumni, faculty, and staff
> 10+ study areas
> 24/7 computer labs
> 3 TV lounges
> 2 soundproof music practice rooms
> rec rooms with ping-pong, pool, air hockey, and foosball

The GLOBE
Within honors housing is a special living option called The GLOBE, which brings the world closer to home. This recently renovated floor in Simmons Hall houses seventy-four Scholars interested in global issues. Cultural films, discussions with faculty on globalization, demonstrations of ethnic food cooking, and conversations with Scholars who have recently studied abroad are among the programs offered.

BEING A FACILITATOR HAS CHANGED MY LIFE.

“LEARNING TO SEE THE WORLD FROM OTHERS’ PERSPECTIVES HAS HELPED ME DEVELOP UNDERSTANDING AND EMPATHY—THE KEY TOWARD CHANGE IN A WORLD THAT OFTEN NEGLECTS THE REALITIES OF THOSE THEY DEEM UNIMPORTANT.”

WILLIAM OKRAFO-SMART ’18

Teaching Assistant, Sociology of Race and Ethnic Relations Course

PENN STATE HAS SOMETHING FOR EVERYONE WITH MORE THAN 1,200 CLUBS AND ORGANIZATIONS—MANY LED BY SCHREYER SCHOLARS.
Our students lead not only in the classroom, but across the University, in NCAA Division I sports; THON, the largest student-run philanthropy in the world; Penn State Blue Band; and social and volunteer organizations. Also, four out of the last five Nittany Lion mascots have been Schreyer Scholars.
FOR ME, THE BEST PART OF PENN STATE HAS BEEN THE SMALL SCHREYER HONORS COLLEGE COMMUNITY WITH ACCESS TO LEADING ENTREPRENEURSHIP DEPARTMENT FACULTY.

William Okrafo-Smart became a teaching assistant during his first year at Penn State leading discussions for World in Conversation, a public diplomacy forum that challenges students to critically think about controversial issues through radically open dialogues amongst people who have different perspectives.

FULBRIGHT SCHOLARSHIPS

For the fourth straight year, Penn State was included on the U.S. Department of State’s list of colleges and universities producing the most Fulbright U.S. students. For the 2015-16 academic year, three Schreyer Honors College Scholars received Fulbright awards and will pursue international experiences and serve as ambassadors of Penn State and the United States across the globe.
Alumni Mentoring

SCHREYER SCHOLARS HAVE OPPORTUNITIES TO BE MATCHED WITH SOME OF THE UNIVERSITY’S MOST ACCOMPLISHED GRADUATES THROUGH THE SOCIETY OF DISTINGUISHED ALUMNI MENTORING PROGRAM. Additionally, through the college’s Mentoring with Honors Program, Scholar alumni connect with individual Scholars to share their perspectives on navigating life, both in college and after graduation. Schreyer Honors College has one of the largest alumni engagement programs on campus in terms of numbers and hours engaged.

“THERE IS A ROCK STAR PEDIATRIC NEUROLOGY RESEARCHER WHO GRADUATED FROM SHC—EXACTLY WHAT I WANT TO DO!”

“My mentor is a really down-to-earth person who wants to inspire the next generation of Schreyer Scholars. Our relationship is about how she can help me.”

Industry Leaders

WE ARE PROUD OF OUR SCHREYER HONORS COLLEGE ALUMNI WHO GO ON TO BECOME LEADERS ACROSS INDUSTRIES. For our Scholars, this presents an opportunity to develop mentor/mentee relationships—some of which turn into full-time employment opportunities. For our alumni, it is a chance to remain engaged with the college and help inspire the next generation of the country’s leaders. For employers, it presents a glimpse into the caliber of students matriculating from the Schreyer Honors College.

CAMPUS SECURITY CRIME STATISTICS—The Jeanne Clery Disclosure of Campus Security Policy and Campus Crime Statistics Act and Pennsylvania Act of 1988 require that crime statistics for Pennsylvania colleges and universities be made available to applicants upon request. Penn State’s combined Annual Security and Annual Fire Safety Report includes statistics for the previous three years concerning reported crimes that occurred on campus, in certain off-campus buildings owned or controlled by the University, and on public property within or immediately adjacent to and accessible from the campus. The report also includes institutional policies concerning campus security, such as those concerning alcohol and drug-use, crime prevention, the reporting of crimes, sexual assault, and other matters. You may obtain this information for the Penn State campus to which you are applying by accessing the website at www.police.psu.edu/clery/ A printed copy of the report may be obtained by writing to University Police & Public Safety, The Pennsylvania State University, Eisenhower Parking Deck, University Park PA 16802-6703 or by calling 814-865-1864.

THIS PUBLICATION IS AVAILABLE IN ALTERNATIVE MEDIA ON REQUEST. The University is committed to equal access to programs, facilities, admission, and employment for all persons. It is the policy of the University to maintain an environment free of harassment and free of discrimination against any person because of age, race, color, ancestry, national origin, religion, creed, sex, sexual orientation, marital or family status, pregnancy, pregnancy-related conditions, physical or mental disability, gender, perceived gender, gender identity, genetic information, or political ideas. Discriminatory conduct and harassment, as well as sexual misconduct and relationship violence, violate the dignity of individuals, impede the realization of the University’s educational mission, and will not be tolerated.
